

SANWAD

Woven Together

Index

CONTENTS

1. MD'S MESSAGE

2. WOVEN TOGETHER

3. INDEPENDENCE DAY CELEBRATION

4. BOOK RECOMMENDATIONS

5. SANWAD QUIZ

5. AUGUST HIGHLIGHT

- NEW ONBOARD
- BIRTHDAY RECAP
- BIRTHDAY CELEBRATION

6. EMPLOYEE REFERRAL PROGRAM

MD's Message

Woven Together: The Fabric of Who We Are

As August arrived it brought a season rich with meaning - of independence and of the intricate relationships that define who we are.

Across our homes and across Karma Global, we celebrate freedom, faith and belonging - through the tricolour that flutters in our hearts, the thread of a rakhi tied in love and the divine stories of Janmashtami that remind us of duty with play. But beyond these rituals lies something deeper: the threads that hold us together, even when we don't see them.

Our theme this month, "Woven Together," invites us to pause and reflect - not on individual brilliance, but on the quiet power of connection. We are a tapestry of people and purpose - each thread distinct yet inseparable from the whole. And it is in this coming together that Karma Global finds its true strength.

Whether it's the way teams collaborate across geographies or how a simple gesture uplifts a colleague, these are not just workplace moments - they are the fabric of our shared culture. They remind us that what binds us is stronger than what separates us.

Being "woven together" is not just a state - it is a choice, To trust, To listen and To show up for one another. To celebrate differences while building something greater than ourselves.

As we step into the festive season, may we continue to nurture these invisible threads - with intention, care and integrity.

Because the most enduring fabric is not made of what we do - but of how we do it, together.

Together, we are stronger.
Together, we endure.
Together, we grow.

Let us continue to honour the tapestry we're building — with intention, inclusion and integrity.

– Pratik Vaidya
Managing Director, Karma Global

The Birth of Little Krishna

A long time ago, in the kingdom of Mathura, there lived a cruel king named Kansa. He ruled harshly and wanted to stay in power forever. One day, he heard a prophecy that said his sister Devaki's eighth child would be the reason for his downfall. Terrified, he locked Devaki and her husband Vasudeva in a dark prison, hoping to stop destiny.

Devaki and Vasudeva were true devotees of Lord Vishnu. They patiently waited for their special child, believing he would be divine. On the holy night of Janmashtami, at midnight, Devaki gave birth to a beautiful baby boy with skin like a dark cloud and eyes shining like stars. This was none other than Lord Krishna, the eighth incarnation of Vishnu.

That night, miracles happened. The prison doors opened, guards fell asleep, and Vasudeva was able to carry baby Krishna out safely. Crossing the stormy Yamuna River, he reached the village of Gokul. There, he exchanged Krishna with a newborn girl, Yogmaya, born to Yashoda and Nanda. Vasudeva then returned to the prison with the baby girl.

When Kansa heard of the birth, he rushed to kill the child. But the baby transformed into her true form—Goddess Durga. She told Kansa that his enemy was already born and safe elsewhere. Shocked and afraid, Kansa realized he could not escape his fate.

From then on, people celebrated the magical birth of Krishna every year as Janmashtami. The story reminds us that no matter how powerful evil may seem, goodness, love, and divine grace will always win in the end. Lord Krishna's life continues to inspire people to walk the path of devotion, compassion, and truth.

– Simran Sonkar
Administration Executive

Woven Together

We are not just roles or titles worn,
Not just tasks from dusk till dawn.
We are colours, threads, and crafted lines,
Woven through space, across all times.

A call returned, a silent nod,
A shared sweet on a festive pod.
A wrist that holds a Rakhi string,
A flag that makes our spirits sing.

In files and charts, we find our part,
Yet it's the human touch that makes the art.
A gentle nudge, a knowing glance,
The rhythm of a team in dance.

From Krishna's play to freedom's fight,
From candle glow to data byte,
We carry forward all we've known -
With every stitch, our bond has grown.

So here's to threads both seen and not,
To every caring thought we've brought.
We are many, yet not apart -
Woven together, heart by heart.

- Karma Global Team

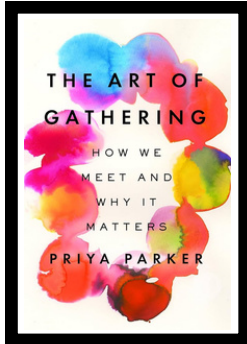

INDEPENDENCE DAY CELEBRATION

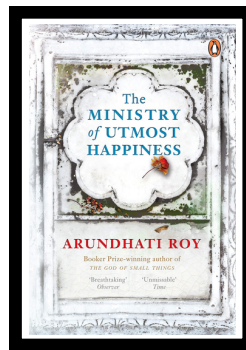

BOOKS

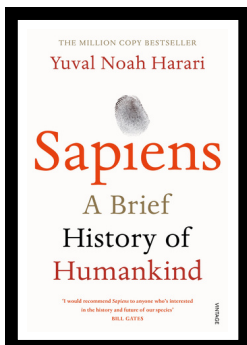

RECOMMENDATIONS

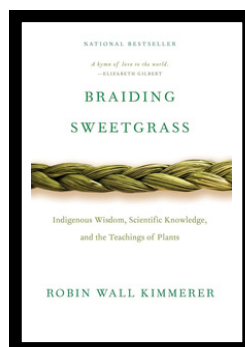

A powerful guide on how to create meaningful connections - at work, in life and in community.

A lyrical celebration of India's complexity – how broken lives, diverse identities, and unlikely bonds are all woven together in the same story.

Explores how storytelling, collaboration, and shared belief systems have kept humanity connected through time.

A poetic blend of science and Indigenous wisdom, this book beautifully explores the threads between humans and nature - and between tradition and modernity.

A multigenerational novel about family, identity, and the quiet endurance that binds people across time and place.

Sanwad Quiz

In the Mahabharata, which character tied a piece of cloth to Krishna's bleeding finger, an act often associated with the origin of Raksha Bandhan?

A Draupadi

C Radha

B Subhadra

D Kunti

The peacock feather in Krishna's crown symbolizes:

A Humility

C Beauty with detachment

B Victory

D Kunti

The traditional handloom weave of Pochampally, known for its geometric ikat designs, originates from which Indian state?

A Odisha

C Gujarat

B Andhra Pradesh

D Telangana

The Raksha Bandhan festival has been historically used as a symbol of unity in which social movement led by Rabindranath Tagore?

A Anti-partition movement

C Civil Disobedience Movement

B Swadeshi Movement

D Quit India Movement

Sanwad Quiz

Which part of the Indian Constitution contains the Fundamental Duties that reflect collective responsibility and unity?

A Part III

C Part IVA

B Part IV

D Part V

Which constitutional article permits the State to impose reasonable restrictions on freedom of speech in the interest of unity and integrity of India?

A Article 14

C Article 19(2)

B Article 25

D Article 370

What is the Ashoka Chakra a symbol of in the Indian flag?

A National Integrity

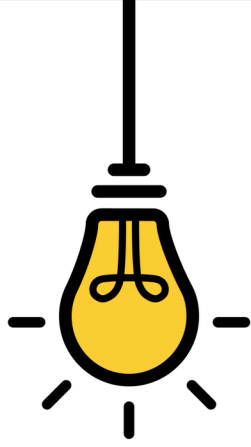

C Power

B Eternal Dharma & Movement

D Justice & Liberty

ANSWER

1. Drapadi
2. Beauty with detachment
3. Telangana
4. Anti-partition movement
5. Part IVA
6. Article 19(2)
7. Eternal Dharma & Movement

New Onboard

Sachin Mangat

Chiranjeev

RaviKiran Golli

Prajukumara S

Birthday Recap

SANJAY BHARDWAJ

MEENAKSHI WADEKAR

RYALI HARI LOKESH

ROSHAN YEDRE

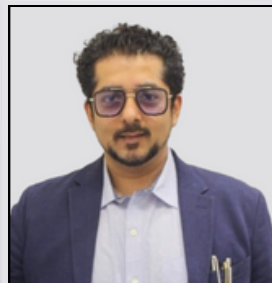

ABHISHEK THAKUR

RAGHULKUMAR
RAVIKUMAR

SUBHASH ARSEKAR

PRATIK VAIDYA

SIMRAN SONKAR

JILL CHHEDA

PRAKASH CHANDRA
PRABHAKAR

PRANIT VICHARE

PRATIK PHARANDE

Birthday Celebration August

We are Hiring

Open Positions

-
- Sales - Pune, Ahmedabad, Hyderabad
 - KAO - Mumbai
 - Helpdesk Executive - Mumbai

Refer talented candidates and receive referral amount !

